

You have invested countless hours organising your party. You've organised vendors, chosen a venue, curated a menu, and selected a playlist. But when the day arrives, you deserve to genuinely relish the event — not spend it dashing around handling crises.

The key to enjoying your own party is delegating. At Kollysphere, we suggest delegating these 12 tasks to dependable friends and family members so you can truly enjoy yourself.

1. Guest Check-In

Task a charismatic friend to oversee the guest check-in. This will welcome guests, check names against the guest list, distribute name tags or itineraries, and guide people to the main event space.

2. Supplier Coordination

Delegate a organised friend to serve as the main liaison for all vendors. This will deal with vendor questions, coordinate arrivals, and resolve any difficulties that come up.

Third. AV and Music Management

Assign a audiophile friend to handle the music selection. They will work with the DJ or performers, make sure the sound levels are suitable, and maintain the vibe buoyant throughout the event.

4. Capturing the Memories

If you have engaged a professional photographer, appoint a friend to act as their point person. This person will highlight significant moments, gather friends for pictures, and guarantee the photographer captures all the critical images.

5. Catering Management

Delegate a culinary friend to work with the F&B team. They will ensure dishes are presented on time, dietary needs are accommodated, and water are constantly accessible.

6. Bar Management

Delegate a trustworthy friend to manage the beverage service. They will ensure cups are replenished, frozen water is on hand, and guests are catered for appropriately.

7. Tidying Team

Appoint a hands-on friend to oversee waste disposal during the event. This will guarantee bins are cleared, spills are mopped up quickly, and the venue stays tidy.

8. Games and Fun

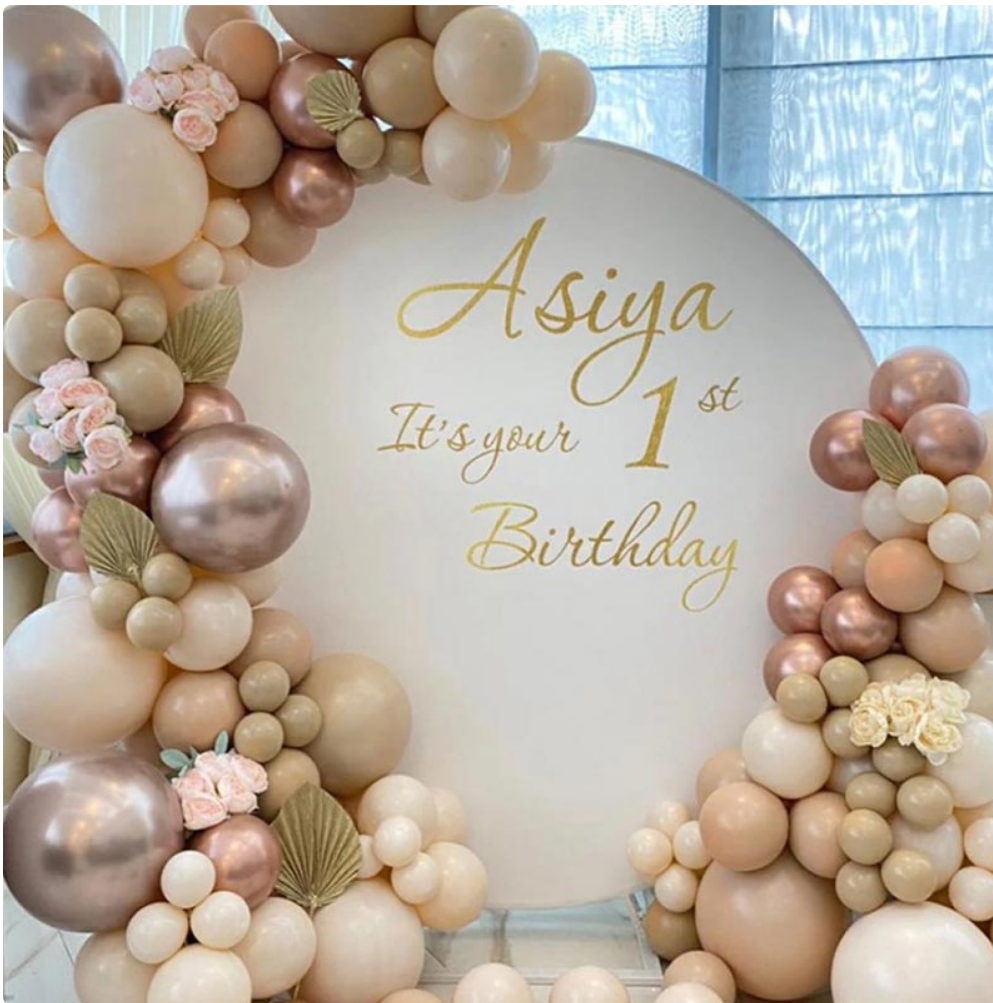

Delegate an gregarious friend to coordinate entertainment. This person will compere mixers, run fun competitions, and ensure everyone is included.

9. Capturing and Sharing

Appoint a online-savvy friend to snap and upload pictures during the event. This will manage the social media tag, nudge guests to post their own photos, and assemble a digital album post-event.

Tenth. Present Coordination

Delegate a dependable friend to oversee the present table. This will receive presents, keep them safe, and make sure they are taken to the celebrant's home afterwards.

Eleventh. Getting Guests Home Safely

Delegate a trustworthy friend to oversee transportation. This will arrange ride-hailing services, guarantee guests who have been imbibing get home without incident, and handle any parking difficulties.

12. Looking After the Guest of Honour

Assign a trusted friend or family member to attend to the guest of honour. They will guarantee they are relaxed, have all they require, and are relishing themselves without anxiety.
