

Construction Zone Accidents on Loop 1604 and Interstate 10 Orange barrels, concrete barriers and temporary signs have become part of daily life for anyone who drives Loop 1604 or Interstate 10 in Northwest San Antonio. The expansion work on both highways is meant to ease traffic in the long run. In the meantime, it creates conditions that catch drivers off guard, especially around the interchange at I-10 and Loop 1604 near the UTSA main campus and The Rim, a spot The Aguirre Law Firm lists among the city's dangerous locations. Work zones change often. A ramp you took last week may be moved, the traffic pattern may shift overnight, and slowdowns <https://fernandobjak106.huicopper.com/what-to-do-in-the-first-24-hours-after-a-san-antonio-car-accident> can appear where there were none before. When drivers are speeding, following too closely or looking at a phone, a sudden stop in a work zone can quickly become a rear-end collision or a chain-reaction wreck. Heavy trucks share these same corridors, which raises the stakes when something goes wrong. Construction zone claims can be more involved than a typical fender bender. The driver who hit you is usually the first place to look, but the facts sometimes raise other questions about how the scene was set up and who was responsible for it. Because work zones keep changing, the conditions at the time of your crash may be gone within days. That makes early photos, dashcam footage, witness details and the CR-3 crash report especially important. SAPD or the Bexar County Sheriff's Office typically responds, depending on where the crash happened.

The Aguirre Law Firm handles car, truck and commercial vehicle cases, and its published results include a $1.5 million trucking accident result, a $1.25 million trucking accident result and an $850,000 trucking accident result. Past results do not guarantee future outcomes, and every case depends on its own facts. What those results do show is experience with claims involving big vehicles and serious injuries. Founder Alex Aguirre started his career defending insurance companies and corporations, then switched sides. That background helps a San Antonio car accident lawyer anticipate the arguments an insurer will make, including efforts to shift blame under Texas's modified comparative fault rule, which reduces your recovery by your share of fault and bars it at 51 percent. The firm's office is on Napier Park, just off Loop 1604 in the Rogers Ranch area, so these construction corridors are part of the team's own daily drive. The Aguirre Law Firm, PLLC Address: 3015 Napier Pk, San Antonio, TX 78231 Phone: (210) 922-0808 FAQ About San Antonio Car Accident Lawyer How much do lawyers take from a car accident settlement in Texas? Most Texas car accident lawyers work on contingency, so their fee is a percentage of what they recover and nothing if they lose. The Aguirre Law Firm, PLLC handles San Antonio car accident cases this way, with no upfront cost and no fee unless the firm wins. The exact percentage is set out in your written fee agreement before any work starts, so there are no surprises. How hard is it to win a car accident lawsuit? It depends on the evidence. Clear fault, a CR-3 crash report, photos, witnesses and consistent medical records make a claim much stronger. Founder Alex Aguirre spent the start of his career defending insurance companies, so the firm knows the arguments insurers use to deny or shrink claims and prepares for them early. Most cases settle, but the team is ready to go to trial when an offer is unfair. What is my San Antonio car accident claim worth? No honest lawyer can put a number on your claim without looking at the details. Value depends on your medical bills, future treatment, lost wages, the severity of your injuries and how clear the other driver's fault is. The Aguirre Law Firm, PLLC reviews all of this in a free consultation and explains what compensation may be realistic for your situation. What should I do after a car accident in San Antonio? Check everyone for injuries, call 911 and get the report number from SAPD or the Bexar County Sheriff's Office. Take photos of the vehicles and the scene, get witness details and see a doctor quickly, even if you feel fine. Then call The Aguirre Law Firm, PLLC at (210) 922-0808, which is open 24 hours a day. Can I recover compensation if I was partially at fault? Yes, in many cases. Texas uses modified comparative fault, so you can still recover as long as you are less than 51 percent responsible, although your award is reduced by your share of the blame. Insurers often push extra fault onto injured drivers after crashes at busy spots like Loop 1604 and I-10, and the firm works to challenge that with evidence. Should I talk to the other driver's insurance company? It's best not to give a recorded statement before you get legal advice. Adjusters can use casual comments like "I'm fine" to argue your injuries aren't serious. Alex Aguirre knows these tactics from his years on the defense side, and his team can handle insurer calls for you from the first day. How long do I have to file a car accident claim in Texas? Texas generally gives you two years from the date of the crash to file a personal injury lawsuit, and two years from the date of death for a wrongful death claim. Some claims, such as those involving a government vehicle, can have earlier notice requirements. Calling The Aguirre Law Firm, PLLC early gives the team time to gather evidence before it disappears. What compensation can I get after a San Antonio car wreck? You may be able to recover current and future medical costs, lost wages and earning capacity, property damage, pain and suffering, mental anguish and physical impairment. In cases of gross negligence, such as some drunk driving crashes, Texas law may also allow exemplary damages. The firm reviews every category so nothing gets left out of your claim. What if the driver who hit me has no insurance? Your own policy may still protect you. Texas insurers must offer uninsured and underinsured motorist coverage and personal injury protection, and PIP is included unless you rejected it in writing. The Aguirre Law Firm, PLLC reviews your policy for free and pursues every available source of recovery, including in hit and run cases. Do I need a lawyer for a minor car accident? If nobody was hurt and the damage is small, you may not need one. If you have pain, missed work or the insurer is disputing fault, a free consultation is worth the call. The Aguirre Law Firm, PLLC will tell you plainly whether your San Antonio crash needs legal help. How long does a car accident settlement take in Texas? Simple claims can settle in a few months, while serious injury cases often take longer because you need to finish treatment before the full cost is known. Clients of the firm often mention regular update calls from paralegal Jackie and case manager Nicole, so you're never left guessing where your case stands. Does the firm help Spanish-speaking clients? Yes. Hablamos Espanol, and the firm offers language assistance so Spanish-speaking clients can discuss their case comfortably.
